Here is a state-of-the-art examination of various approaches to measuring and assessing client functioning and specific aspects of clients' social environments. It examines numerous age groups and ethnic populations and makes use of cutting-edge methodologies in its examinations of measuring depression in children, measuring "the neighbourhood" from a child's perspective, measuring and assessing family functioning, measuring spirituality, and measuring psychosocial problems in seriously mentally ill families. Helpful tables in each chapter make complex information easy to access and understand. "Approaches to Measuring Human Behavior in the Social Environment" is vital reading for master's and PhD level social workers, psychologists, counsellors, marriage and family therapists, psychiatrists, and researchers in these fields.
