Ladies intimate apparel dominates the intimate apparel market, encouraging much research in the area. More complex than men's apparel in terms of research and technology, the knowledge developed can easily be transferred to men's intimate apparel where appropriate. "Innovation and Technology of Women's Intimate Apparel" is the first monograph in the world to offer a thorough review and critical appreciation of the technological and innovative developments of ladies' intimate apparel. It describes the principles and scientific understanding of size, materials, pattern, fit, comfort, and health considerations to achieve the functional and technical design of various types of lingerie.
