This is the story of a man who is unable to cope with the conflicts and insecurities of the real world. He withdraws into his mind where he creates his own universe and he plays God, sometimes with reluctance. Once in his alternate universe he tries to create the perfect order of good. However, at the crowning point of his achievement, his universe is destroyed. Partly out of what he created unknowingly from his repressed fears. Unable to effect any change he is forced to watch as this destruction happens. This in turn forces him back to the real world, with full memory of what had transpired.
