The dramatic increase in the use of computers and other forms of technology in social work education and practice has academics, trainers and administrators investing valuable time, money and effort into trying to make the transition from traditional teaching to a Web-assisted learning environment. "Technology in Social Work Education and Curriculum" takes the mystery out of online experience with practical information on using technology to enhance and enrich learning - but not at the expense of the 'human' approach to social work. This unique book presents a variety of creative and interesting methods for incorporating technology that's affordable and user-friendly and for developing online skills that will not become obsolete as computer technology evolves.
