Trophy Bowhunting invites you to participate in some of the world's greatest bowhunting challenges and gives you all the knowledge you need to succeed. From tracking North American trophies to taking African elephants to bowhunting muskox in the North Pole, this book teaches how to plan the trip of your dreams, buy the right gear for the job, and bag the trophy of a lifetime. Each chapter offers complete information for bowhunting specific game, including budget planning, species distribution, gear requirements, guides and outfitters, and expert commentary on game availability and hunting tactics. Well-known bowhunters share adventure stories and sound advice: Join Jack Brittingham as he stalks giant coastal grizzlies in Alaska; chase turkey hunting's World Slam with Danny Faulkner; pursue Africa's Big Six--lion, leopard, elephant, Cape buffalo, rhinoceros, and hippopotamus--in northwest Namibia with Wendell Reich. Modern bowhunting gear is adequate to take the most exotic and dangerous quarries, but you need to be sufficiently prepared for the challenge. Discover whether you have the discipline, resourcefulness, and courage it takes to defy the odds against difficult game in some of the most extreme environments with only a bow and a handful of arrows.
