A gifted interpreter of timeless Buddhist wisdom creates ardent, moving images, exhorting contemporary readers to speak out for peace and justice. An excerpt: ""All people have the right to live in peace! What is needed now is for each individual to become stronger, to check and triumph over authority. To do this is our right. We struggle and raise our voices loud in order that we may live lives of wonder and joy. Never believe that the greatest, most irresistible force is the power of the state. For the energy of the soul, the might of the human spirit, is an even greater force, the most magnificent power of all. Let us form in our hearts the resolute will to realize peace, summoning a force sublime and unsurpassed.""
