'I have lived in important places, times

When great events were decided ...'

By turns comical, grouchy and exalted, and including his tragic masterpiece 'The Great Hunger', some of the key poems by the writer who transformed Anglo-Irish verse.

"And I think of you walking along a headland Of green oats in June, So full of repose, so rich with life - And I see us meeting at the end of a town O you are not lying in the wet clay, For it is a harvest evening now and we Are piling up the ricks against the moonlight And you smile up at us - eternally."
