Translated from the Chinese by Li Rongxi. This is a biography of King Asoka, the third ruler of the Mauryan Dynasty in Magadha in Central India during the third century B.C.E. It relates how King Asoka unified India for the first time, and having been converted to Buddhism, sent emissaries throughout the land spreading the teachings of Buddhism. [Taisho Tripitaka #2043] [Ch: A-yu-wang-ching] [Jpn: A-iku-o-kyo]
