A vivacious woman and a high-spirited man both claim that they are determined never to marry. But when their friends trick them into believing that each harbours secret feelings for the other, they begin to question whether their witty banter and sharp-tongued repartee conceals something deeper. Schemes abound, misunderstandings proliferate and matches are eventually made in this sparkling and irresistible comedy.

很喜欢~~序言也很thought-provoking~~Dr. Newell的close reading叫人受益匪浅!

How many of us profess to be in love while being virtually infatuated with our own shades in a masquerade?
