From School Library Journal ea. vol: tr. from French by Nan Buranelli. 69p. maps. photos. reprods. glossary. index. (Events of Yesteryear Series). CIP. Silver Burdett. 1987. PLB $14.96. Grade 7-9 These two slim volumes, lavishly illustrated with full-color, conventionally realistic pictures, are translations of French texts from 1984 and 1985. They bear the stamp of reworked publications. There is a disjunction between headings, text, and pictures which the lengthy, fine-print captions in the margins fail to bridge. The French Revolution lends itself to the overall form of the series, a ten-year time frame with separate headings on each two-page opening. Episodes occurring during the turbulent years 1789 to 1799 are arranged in sequence. Some readers may be discouraged by the sometimes awkward translation which uses words such as seigneur, knave, or ``the king's toilet" without explanation. The book is rich with historical anecdotes and descriptions which may interest those already familiar with the revolutionary period, but the text lacks introductory comment or interpretation. The Renaissance confines its coverage to events occurring between 1450 and 1550. It eschews the conventional viewpoint that the Renaissance means only art and happened only in Italy, but in giving the term its widest application, it loses focus, including far-ranging topics such as the fall of Constantinople, Cortes in Mexico, witch hunts, Henry VIII, and Martin Luther. This incoherent text is a poor attempt at integrating social and technological events into history. The French Revolution may fill a gap in some libraries, but with many better books on the Renaissance available, this one should be avoided. Shirley Wilton, Ocean County College, Toms River, N.J.
