DEAR PARENT
> Jesus told the Parable of the Two Sons (Matt. 21:28-32)during a confrontation between Himself and members of theSanhedrin¼ the supreme Jewish council. Jesus had made Hisdramatic Palm Sunday entrance into

Jerusalem; He had driven the moneychangers and merchandisers from the Temple. Now in the final days before His death He was staying in Bethany just a short distance from Jerusalem and going daily to the city to teach. The Sanhedrin had already decided that Jesus must die and they were seeking evidence to justify their decision. "By what authority are You doing these things?" they asked. Christ responded to their question with a question of His own a question the chief priests and elders were not willing to answer. He then told the story of the two sons and His message was clear: The leaders of Israel had promised to obey God but they were not willing to follow Him and do His will; they were like the second son who promised to take part in the harvest but did not do so. The message is also clear for us: It is not enough for us to say we believe in Jesus and that we will follow Him. We must also accept Him in our hearts and in our life and we must work for Him in His kingdom. Which son are you like? THE EDITOR
