t easy to see what day it was in the Hundred-was Acre Wood. Birds cuddled in pairs on drooping limbs and were loudly chirping duets. Friendly ~ breeres tickled the leaves of trees until they flut tered with laughter. Saplings shyly touched andi¼Œ bending closei¼Œ exchanged sweet secrets in restless whispers. It always seemedi¼Œ on Valentine s Dayi¼Œ that things were more tightly wrapped around each other than usuali¼Œ as if Mother and Father Nature were taking advantage of the day to share an extra-large hug.
