~ne
 day a king went hunting in an enchanted foresti¼Œ pursuing a magnificent stag so eagerly that his hunts-men could not keep up. The creature led him deeper and deeper into the woodi¼Œ then suddenly vanished. Puzzledi¼Œ the king reined in his horse and looked around him. He realized that he had lost his wayi¼Œ and evening was falling. On all sidesi¼Œ he heard the snarls and growls of strange beasts roaming in the shadows.
 Vainlyi¼Œ he searched for a way out of the woodi¼Œ but the path he had followed had disappeared as surely as the deer.
 He found another path and followed it for a while. Soon he saw an old womani¼Œ coming toward him. She leaned on a staff of hazelwood that went Tap! Tap! Tap! as she approached.
 \"Good womani¼Œ\" he calledi¼Œ \"can you show me the way out of this forest?\" \"I can easily show you the way--but only upon one conditioni¼Œ\" the woman said. \"If you don t agree to iti¼Œ you ll never get out of the wood.\" \"What is the condition?\" asked the king uneasily.
 \"I have a daughteri¼Œ\" said the old womani¼Œ \"who is so beau-tifuli¼Œ only a king is worthy of her. If you will promise to marry heri¼Œ and make her your queeni¼Œ I will show you the way out o~ the forest.\"
