From Kirkus Reviews Kia Tanisha Drives Her Car ($5.95; Jan. 31, 1997; 12 pp.; 0-694-00848-6): A toddler named Kia Tanisha shows her independence, driving a toy car to her friend Angie's doorstep in this companion book to Kia Tanisha (ISBN 0-694-00847-8) and then driving home. Greenfield and Gilchrist, working within the page constraints of the board-book format, opt for two slight stories rather than tight concepts, accompanied by disappointing artwork. Some elements of the illustrations are barely sketched in, while others--e.g., the car--are given solid outlines, to disconcerting effect. The perspective shifts abruptly, from a long view of Kia Tanisha and her car to a close-up of the dashboard, where the objects--key, steering wheel, horn, even the hands--will be barely recognizable to the toddler set. (Board book. 1-4) -- Copyright ©1996, Kirkus Associates, LP. All rights reserved."
