Another in Rizzoli's excellent series of heavily illustrated monographs on contemporary architectural masters. Rossi (b. 1931), who has taught in this country and written widely, practices in Milan. He was one of the first to provide historical links with the past, abandoning the ahistorical tendencies of modernism. The texts are brief, but the photographs and plans are full and excellent. Scully has contributed a brief appreciative introduction. Recommended as a thorough, careful, highly visual document of post-modern architecture. Jack Perry Brown, Art Inst. of Chicago Libs.

The one and only Aldo Rossi.

Jung once wrote to Freud:” Logical thought is “thinking in words.” “Analogical thought is sensed yet unreal, imagined yet silent. It is archaic, unexpressed, and practically inexpressible in words.”

Rizzoli在九十年代出版的这一个系列的著名现代建筑师作品的作品集，质量可谓相当之高，不像大多数作品集那样，片面的堆砌照片和图纸，而是非常有目的性的，将手稿，各阶段构思，以及完成后的相关论述，很有逻辑的组织在一起，兼具趣味与深度。再看看20年后的Rizzoli……当年的那个良心出版商现在跑哪去了
