"FATHER LAR" JACKIE
ther New Priest is here! With those words the crisis in my pr serious entered its acute phase. Even at tt dimly aware of its onset. I was losing faith parishi in my priesthood and in God.
"Is Father Keenan cute?" I tried to laugh away my unease.
Must not let the troops know I had my doubts about the new priest.
"Awesomely" the red-haired teenage receptionist giggled. "He s fixing the compuder!"
"No one can fix the compkter." I hung up the phone gently. Or anything else that is broken in Saint Finian s parish.
For us the new technology never works.
I had become a priest to save the world. Now I wanted only to save the people of the world writ small that was my parish. What would happen to me when I lost even that dream?
It s hard to sustain a spiritual dream when so much of your time is devoted to fixing busted machinery.

 I sighed¼ almost as loudly as our West-of-Ireland Cook when none of us had finished our immense helpings of her latest culinary masterpiece. I had been a New Priest once¼ not awesomely cute perhaps but still filled with enthusiasm and energy and youthful zeal. Now I would need all of the four cardinal virtues--justice¼ temperance¼ fortitude¼ and prudenceto cope with my new associate.
 A long time ago I had lots of those four virtues¼ too.
