As the resident Bloodhound handler living on the edge of Georgia's Okefenokee Swamp, Jo Beth Sidden is used to people calling on her to track lost children and escaped convicts. So nothing seems unusual when she's hired by a wealthy matriarch to find her missing cat. However, no sooner does Jo Beth find the missing kitty than she learns her employer has been murdered. Now it's up to the feisty sleuth to catch the killer before any more lives are lost -- and before her best bloodhound gives birth. The suspense is nonstop in Virginia Lanier's latest whodunit.
