Ever since the Romans established a trading post on the north bank of the Thames, buying and selling have fuelled the city's rise to eminence, each market contributing its share of local colour and local traditions to its area. From Billingsgate, Borough and Smithfield (operating in Saxon times) to Ridley Road, Portobello Road and Camden Passage, there are literally dozens of markets which cater for the daily and more specialist requirements of Londoners and tourists, offering variety, excitement and value for money.
