Book Description In this beautifully photographed gift book, 50 famous, accomplished determined women celebrate, reflect upon, and embrace life at 50 and beyond. Hillary Clinton. Faye Dunaway. Linda Ellerbee. Jane Fonda. Sue Grafton. Donna Karen. Diane Keaton. Linda Ronstadt. Christine Todd Whitman. What do these high-profile women have in common? In some way, they have changed the world; they are also about to or have already turned 50. Through lively personal interviews and revealing biographies, these role models (and 41 others) eagerly share the extraordinary experiences and wisdom gained during a half-century of life. Featuring elegant black-and-white portraits of each subject, this unique collection provides a glimpse into the private thoughts of some of this century's most provocative women. About the Author Bonnie Miller Rubin has been a journalist for 20 years and is currently a reporter for the Chicago Tribune. She has also written for Good Housekeeping and lives in Hornwood, Illinois.
