WHEN I was thirteen¼ I told my mama I would make a million dollars playing football by the lime I was twenty-one.
 I was off by a year.
 I don t know why I said that to her. I was probably thinking of the million bueks--I was a runt of a kid then and made my spending money selling bootleg candy at school.
 But I believe I was born for football the way some people are barn to be engineers or musicians.
 In the NFL¼ being born for football doesn t guarantee you a thing. You ve got to survive from game to game¼ from year to year. Teams don t put out hospital lists every week for nothing. The name of the game¼ no matter how much they pay you¼ is survival.
 Last season opened with a loss in Dallas and ended with a win in the Super Bowl. You never plan on storybook seasons. You just play the game. The game is something so up-speed and uptempo you can t begin to describe it--it s in your body and you know it in the same way you know hunger or pain. Your life is on the line out there and you look forward to risking it rather than running away. You are crazy--and you can never explain why. I get so worked up before a game that I can barely keep my food down. I know what s out there. When the day comes that I let up and go out
