

Thinking the Unthinkable

Thinking the Unthinkable 下载链接1

著者:

出版者:

出版时间:

装帧:

isbn:9780884193111

A POPULAR song a few years ago envisaged
"there s a new world comin. \" Is there? As 1992 is ushered in the Americas are celebrating the five hundredth anniversary of the discovery of our \"new world.\" This is also the year the Old World of Western Europe achieved the biblically predicted consummation of its apolitical as well as economic reunion. The Treaty of Rome in thirty-five years has evolved via the European Common Market into a literal revived Roman Empire. But in stark contrast what for seventy-four years has been the USSR is no more. Sitting here in Russia as I am during the first week of 1992 U.S. secretary of state James Baker on \"Pace the Nation\" has warned the world solemnly that what we had known as the USSR could well be on the verge of a civil war along the lines of what is happening in Yugoslavia the difference being that the contesting republics could well resort to using some of their stockpile of twenty-seven thousand nuclear weapons. Mikhail Gorbachev

agreesi¼Œ lamenting that such a struggle would make the Yugoslavian bloodbath like a joke in comparison.
 So is there a new world comin ?
Yesi¼Œ thank Godi¼Œ it is 作者介绍:

目录:

Thinking the Unthinkable_ 下载链接1

标签

评论

Thinking the Unthinkable_ 下载链接1

书评

Thinking the Unthinkable_ 下载链接1