A Developmental Program for Babies and Toddlers

This book encourages:

- * Association
- * Parent/Child interaction

- * Looking and listening
- * Animal recognition

“At six to twelve months, your baby is beginning to explore and recognize familiar places, people, and objects. Reading aloud enhances these experiences and gives your baby the tools to start developing language. Reading together strengthens attachment, trust, and self-esteem, the building blocks of future success.”

-----Tess Riesmeyer, Associate Director of Early Literacy Beginning with Books
