I did not mean to kill the rabbit<sup>1/4</sup> but it ran suddenly across<sup></sup>the track at a nice distance<sup>1/4</sup> and my gun came up without<sup></sup>any conscious decision on my part. The rabbit vanished into<sup></sup>the rough<sup>1/4</sup> but I knew I had hit it<sup>1/4</sup> and it could not be far off<sup>1/4</sup><sup></sup>so I went to look for it. I never found it<sup>1/4</sup> because I found the<sup></sup>man instead<sup>1/4</sup> and that put the rabbit out of my head. If I had<sup></sup>not shot the rabbit and gone to look for it<sup>1/4</sup> I should never<sup></sup>have found the man<sup>1/4</sup> and neither would anyone else<sup>1/4</sup> or not<sup></sup>
