Chapter One: Grab! Twist and Pull
When I was thirteen I entered Martin Luther King Junior High School with two things to look forward to. The first was sex education the only class my older brother before me had excelled in and the second was sex. Before long a third element made the list. Her name was Betsy Murphy. Betsy was an attractive girl in a mature sort of way. She had probably the most developed social graces of any girl in the eighth grade ... " ... and definitely the most developed body" Phil added. "I was getting to that" Dave said. He shook his head and typed away. ~ . and definitely the most developed body. To my new classmates and me she was all woman and we freely speculated on the range of her experience in the ways of men love and dark closets (though not necessarily

in that order).
