Preface
It is very difficult to begin acknowledging here all the people's places's and things that are chiefly responsible for such an undertaking; but the authors wish to thank some important people here without whose help's inspiration's and dedication this book would have been impossible. Thanks to Ron Hobbs's to whose urging to do the research needed for such a work we finally succumbed. Thanks to Lorenzo D. Turner's whose many years of study and many fine books on black language made the research task easier. Thanks also to the many p~ople who have done some initial work in the area of black languages and black dialects. Especially inspiring were LeRoi's Jones s (Imamu Amiri Baraka s) Blues People's Lydia Parrish s
Slave Songs of the Georgia Sea Islands's
Edward L. Tinker s Gombo Comes to Philadelphia's Western

Electric Company's audio presentation of "The Dialect of the Black American" and William A. Stewart's work at the Center for Applied Linguistics. Thanks also to Barbara Schwartz who typed the final draft and to Amy Shelansky, Pat Bruce and Bella Rosenberg who gave of their time and energy in research. And finally to Kathy Benson the one person most responsible for pulling the manuscript together into some coherent form. Hopefully readers will not interpret the information presented here as final authority; new discoveries are being made in this area every day. Instead this should be viewed as an introductory work. The authors take all responsibility for it.
