Book Description The astonishing photographs and stories in this book document a little-known side of New York's heroic response to the tragic events of September 11, 2001: the maritime rescue effort. Ferries, tugboats, private vessels, and others joined together to evacuate an estimated 300, 000 people from lower Manhattan. In conjunction with a landmark exhibit of the same name at the South Street Seaport Museum, "All Available Boats" tells the story of this historic day through the voices of some of its heroes. About the Author Mike Magee, MD is a Senior Fellow in Humanities to the World Medical Association and Director of the Pfizer Medical

Humanities Initiative. He is a past David Rockefeller Fellow and Honorary Master Scholar at New York University School of Medicine. Author of The Book of Choices and Positive Leadership, Dr. Magee has been termed by the Boston Globe "the most optimistic physician in America"
