And men should know that from nothing else but from the brain come joys laughter and jests
and sorrows
griefs despondency and lamentations. And by this in an especial manner we acquire wisdom and knowledge and see and hear and know what are foul and what are fair what sweet and what unsavory . . . and by the same organ we become mad and delirious and fears and terrors assail us some by day and dreams and untimely wanderings and cares that are not suitable and ignorance of present circumstances disquietude and unskillfulness. All these things we endure from the brain
when it is not healthy but is more cold more moist or more dry than natural or when it suffers other preternatural and unusual affliction.
Hippocrates
fifth century B.C.
