patient. I fell apart as quickly as I could and went to the hospital. I'm sure that I'd be surrounded by a bunch of loonies doing weird things. All I could remember was my poor old Olivia (to be lavished and wandering about the Snake Pit being vague) I'm out of focus but I am in hell. I pictured myself dramatically tied to a bed while sadistic attendants forced gruel down my throat with a tube. Then I signed myself in and found a private hospital ward artfully disguised as a holiday home. I'd done in soothing shades of green with family motel furniture, carpeting and famous artists' prints on the wall. I heard all the nurses who could verbalize at all predicted that the worst result would be fine. I just terrified them in the end of a host. I heard success - completely ignored less fortunate patients like old ladies. Valkyrie who remained locked in a wheelchair and thought conversation was her only daughter. I could hardly stand how they felt. As a child I'd tried to ignore some of Aunt Lily's more embarrassing outbursts. Still, I'll be there in time.
