Whatever the attraction a well-kept lawn does possess a certain mystique express our appreciation. Your climate is the single greatest factor to influence lawn growth. You don't have to tell kids about the pleasures of going barefoot. Climate determines whether especially when it comes to playing lawn games. Kentucky bluegrass or bermuda- grass (or both) will thrive in your front yard. It dictates the right times to fertilize water and when crabgrass germinates. Diseases and weeds that are rampant in one climate are rare or nonexistent in another. It becomes easy to understand that climate is a very important reason why the information in this book is regionalized. National lawn survey To find out just what kind of information people wanted in a book on lawns we conducted an extensive survey of lawn growers and nurserymen in every part of the country. They told us of the importance of knowing the "how and when" of lawn growing. Be it!
