FTER THE EYE EXAMINATION DOUG GARDNER SAT
across from Dr. Jeffrey Weiss in an office so dark with its heavy
leather furniture
murky brown wallpaper
and dim lighting
the only good
light a desk lamp on the doctor s desk
he thought it might have been a psychological ploy. Everyone leaves here thinking he s going blind and
is therefore in desperate need of Dr. Weiss s ophthalmology. Weiss was trim
about six feet tall
with a full head of blond hair. He was probably one of those people who regularly passed Doug on the jogging track in Central Park while Doug slogged along. Everyone passed him. Doug loathed jogging and did it because of the articles all that evidence about cardiovascular benefits that would keep you alive longer. Nobody gave you an actual number though. Will one thousand miles of tedious jogging give you an extra six days or six weeks? And when do you get your jogger's bonus he wondered. Now when you're still able to eat a pastrami sandwich or at the end when you're already on a life-support system?
