Following the end of his marriage, Jason Dark returns to his late father's home in the California wine region, to tend a neglected seventy-five-year-old vineyard. While nursing the vines back to life, Jason begins to heal himself, opening a law practice in the small town nearby and eventually reuniting with his wife and their son. But one rainy night, driving recklessly on a back road, he hits and kills a teenaged boy. Jason's dilemma - to report the accident, or cover it up? - will change the course of his life. The Long Rain is a masterful tale of suspense and moral ambiguity."Convincing....Instantly compelling and believable." -The Detroit Free Press"Delivers plenty of action....Gadol is a gifted writer." -San Francisco Chronicle"Lyrical....The Long Rain is a satisfying book and one that transports readers to a place they might really go." -Portland Oregonian"A heartfelt and engrossing story of moral failure and a quest for redemption....fascinating and impressive." -Kirkus Reviews (starred)AUTHORBIO: Peter Gadol is the author of Light at Dusk, Closer to the Sun, The Mystery Roast, and Coyote. He lives in Los Angeles, California.
