History of Willow Wood Springs Somewhere a planet spins silently in space. It's a planet that teems with life and harbors the hopes and dreams of those who inhabit it. It is the third nearest sphere to its sun, and the majority of its surface is covered with water. It has a single revolving moon. The planet is a thriving one and is characterized by mountains and valleys, deserts and jungles, rivers and lakes, and islands and continents. Although this would be a description of Earth, it seems to be an accurate description of the planet Reath, as it is known to its inhabitants. If ever there were a planet in the vast universe that could truly be Earth's twin sister, it would be Reath. Although hundreds of light-years from our world, it has evolved in much the same way as Earth, and shares many of the same physical and geographic features. Many plants, minerals, and animals that are
