Chapter One
q~i¼l Rosewoodi¼ Texas. Two years later.
Seth McAllister ambled down the quiet street of the very quiet town. Rosewood wasn't what he was used toi¼ but it was what he wanted now.
Having traded in his architectural design firm for a return to his rootsi¼ he hoped to establish a remodeling business. The local hardware store should provide a good source of leads.
Spotting the storei¼ he paused outside to glance in.
As he didi¼ a woman kneeling in the window display area whirled around. He caught a quick and vivid image of longi¼ blond hairi¼ an arresting face and a slim body.
An instant later her face was even with his. She was obviously startled. Her eyesi¼ an incredible tur-quoisei¼ widened and her mouth opened a fraction.
