THE CURTAIN RISES

~WHAT S ~UR NAME?\" the other child said.

\"My name is Janice Holt\" I said.

My remembered life begins at this moment. I had lived four years and a few months. There are some vague\" unsorted earlier memoriesï¼Œ mostly of smellsï¼Œ soundsï¼Œ emotionsï¼Œ and blurred snatches of pictures- a paling fenceï¼Œ the white of a little boy s shirtï¼Œ dust under my feet; as much feeling and smell as sightï¼Œ dry autumn leaves; again as much feeling and smell as sightï¼Œ a big fishï¼Œ told about more than remembered.

All mostly prompted by stories told by my parents of things doneï¼Œ saidï¼Œ events in which I had participated. Also prompted by photographsï¼Œ especially the big fish -- especially the paling fence.

But thisï¼Œ nowï¼Œ was mine. Nobody was there but the other

child and me. \"What s your name7\" she said.

And Iï¼Œ myselfï¼Œ a personï¼Œ an individualï¼Œ replied and identified myself.

The first clearï¼Œ unaidedï¼Œ unprompted memory of my life is therefore the identification of myself. Who I was. In all the worldï¼Œ the entire universeï¼Œ the
