New York firm Fox & Fowle Architects is recognized worldwide as one of the shapers of the new city. Its work spans some 25 years, during which they have won numerous national and international awards for their diverse portfolio. Fox & Fowle believes in enriching the built environment through its work and in doing so enhancing human experience' in our ever-evolving society. As a result, this prominent practice commands a reputation for single-story and high-rise contemporary structures that go beyond the spatial boundaries, and present the cityscape with icons that offer long-term social values. This new monograph of Fox & Fowle's work will document their most significant work to date, in detail, with architectural and planning projects that exemplify the firm's belief in social, environmental and aesthetic integrity.
