Protestant Lord Comeragh and handsome

Catholic Luke Denny; but when Lady Kitty arrives in the dark of night---erroneously brought by the coachman to the ruined castle of Mount Comeragh in County Tipperary--she meets the stranger who will change her entire life.

The Irish rebellion of 1798 had been put down, and the Protestants now rule the impoverished country through tyranny and repression. The only visible sign that the Catholics cannot truly be crushed is the sudden appearances of the Green Man to defend the rights of free men against injustice. No one knows the identity of the Green Man, although Sir William Fossick, Lord Comeragh's right-hand man, is determined to discover him.
