You are your child's best teacher.

More than anyone else, you are important to your child's education, because the key to your child's learning and success in school lies in the quality of his homelife.

The ideas that are shared in Homelife can be incorporated into your lifestyle whether you are a working parent or an in-the-home parent.

Homelife will give you insights that will help you provide a home environment with resources that will Help your child become more creative.

Develop good study habits.

Develop a sense of curiosity.

Encourage your child to read, write and use math skills.

Help your child discover the joy in learning.

Lay a solid foundation for success in school.

Homelife will equip you to build a foundation for lifelong learning for your child, so that, no matter what he may face in school, he will be prepared to learn and develop the skills needed to succeed.

You are your child s best teacher!
