From the author of The Harbinger Effect comes an edge-of-the-seat political thriller as a special forces sergeant and a San Diego librarian are drawn into a tangled web of deceit and romance.

Former SAS trooper A. C. MacKinnon was the best fighting machine in the business until alcohol took the place of pride and professionalism. But when an old comrade-in-arms tracks him down to the desolate New Zealand sheep farm where Mac has turned his life around, he comes with an offer MacKinnon cannot afford to refuse: train a handpicked surgical strike team to swoop down on Mo- ammar Qaddafi s desert retreat and wipe the dreaded madman off the face of the earth. Deadly (and justifiable) business as usual-- but before Mac even leaves the training site, someone tries to kill him. Suddenly, nothing and no one is who or what they seem: Qadda- fy s proposed death plot is merely a cover-up for an even more sinister and far-reaching con- spiracy-one that could affect the future of the Middle East and the entire Free World. On the run from those he once trusted, and the prey of a cold-blooded hired assassin, Mac- Kinnon is desperate to diffuse this potentially devastating situation. And when he unwit- tingly involves librarian Anne Rowen, it becomes a fight to the death for them both as they are caught up in a chilling maelstrom of political intrigue and international terrorism-- and a love neither of them could possibly have
