In a series of crimes that has stunned Baltimore, someone is murdering corrupt CEOs who were recently found innocent of their crimes. And murdering them faster than Holland Carter can keep up. At the same time, a cache of weapons disappear from a local Army base, and he discovers a frightening connection between the two. Carter is also in the midst of a devastating loss at home-but the case becomes all-consuming as he learns the killer is plotting one huge, last, spectacular surprise . . .
