Spangle travels far and wide in his quest to find a democracy that smells right. After being arrested for criticizing the President of the United States of Dogs Spangle realized that the democracy he cherished had started to stink. Where does his nose lead him? Spangle travels the globe meeting an amusing and enlightening cast of characters. One of them, Liberté, whom he meets in Paris, joins him on his journey. In an amazing turn of events Spangle and Liberté are thrust forward into the past to the heart and soul of democracy and get a whiff of where they need to go.
