Rod Laver is, quite simply, the world's best tennis player. And here, written with Bud Collins, one of America's top tennis writers, is the wonderfully readable account of how he got that way. Beginning at the age of 13 when he embarked on his tennis career, the Laver story takes you through the 1969 season, when he won all four major tennis titles in his second Grand Slam--sweeping again the Wimbledon, Australian, French and United States crowns--right down to the present, or as close to it as the logistics of publishing allow.

The Education of a Tennis Player is filled with suspenseful matches and memorable portraits of the tennis giants Laver has met and played against: Hoad, Rosewall, Roche, and
