In these essay, leading scholars and practitioners analyze the political, legal, and regional impact of events in post-genocide Rwanda within the broader themes of transitional justice and reconciliation. We are approaching the fifteenth anniversary of the Rwandan genocide, and mass violence continues to flare in Africa-especially in Darfur, the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC), and northern Uganda. This volume includes chapters from top scholars, including William Schabas, Rene Lemarchand, Linda Melvern, Kalypso Nicolaidis, and Jennifer Welsh, along with senior government and non-government officials involved in matters relating to Rwanda and transitional justice: Hassan Bubacar Jallow (chief prosecutor of the ICTR), Martin Ngoga (prosecutor general of the Republic of Rwanda), and Luis Moreno Ocampo, prosecutor of the International Code Council. Rwandan voices have rarely been heard speaking on the aftermath of the genocide. This anthology also incorporates contributions from Rwandan academics and practitioners, such as Tom Ndahiro, Solomon Nsabiyaera Gasana, and Jean-Baptiste Kayigamba, all of whom draw on personal experience.
