Darcy, Tara, and Lindsay met while playing as children on the windswept beaches of the Hamptons. The three were inseparable, sharing the joys and heartaches of first love, new experiences, and making it on their own. But no matter what happens in their lives, these best friends know they'll always have their special summers - and each other...When it comes to money and being in on the glamorous Hamptons' scene, wealthy and beautiful Darcy Love is used to getting what - and who - she wants. And she's confident this will be the summer where Kevin, the love of her life, finally falls for her...With an ivy-league education and upwardly mobile political career, Tara Washington has always been the responsible, good girl. The only time she feels free to cut loose is when she reunites with her childhood friends in the Hamptons...Lindsay McCorkle knows she's put on more than just a few pounds over the past year so she isn't surprised by the dismayed looks on her friends' faces when she sees them this summer. But she's determined to lose the weight and work up the confidence to seduce one special man...Now as Darcy, Tara, and Lindsay encounter the surprises life has in store for them, their loyalty to each other will be tested, and they'll rediscover the true meaning of friendship. ...
