Jean-Paul Goude's creative talents have been stunning the fashion world for over thirty years. "So Far, So Goude" is the definitive collection of his extraordinarily innovative and unorthodox work. More than 350 colour illustrations trace his life and career, including his time as art director at Esquire; his revolutionary work with Grace Jones on "Jungle Fever"; his videos for MTV; his advertising work for Chanel and Cacharel; and his role as director of 1989's Bicentennial Parade in Paris. This book will be endlessly fascinating to anyone interested in fashion, photography, design or advertising.
