Amanda Lawrence, a charming, sheltered New York socialite, fell in love with Jonathan Dartland, a part-Apache mining engineer who belonged to the vastness of the Arizona desert. Amanda responded to his strength and self-reliance, but had nothing and nobody to guide her when she followed him to the grim town of Lodestone. . . . "Foxfire" was the book Anya Seton completed immediately before embarking on her best-remembered book, "Katherine, "and it was soon" "made into a successful Hollywood movie starring Jane Russell and Jeff Chandler. The book does for the desert Southwest of the Great Depression what "Katherine" did for Chaucer's England--makes a forgotten age come alive in all its rich strangeness and passion-filled glory.
