Teresa Bloomingdale, "the patron saint of beleaguered housewives," believes that the originator of Murphy's Law ("If anything can go wrong, it will") must have been a mother. No doubt the long-suffering Mrs.

Murphy, like her counterpart from Omaha, had to cope with a hypochondriac husband, chorephobic offspring, and garbage disposals that talk back. A mother of ten, Mrs. B. wages humorous battles on the homefront daily. No wonder she suggests some personal corollaries to Murphy's Law like: "If your family and friends insist on celebrating your birthday, you're forty; He who claims his child never lies, lies;" and "No family should attempt an auto trip if their kids outnumber the car windows." Everyone who reacts her warmhearted family accounts will feel the fun and magic of the wonderful Mrs. B.

Teresa Bloomingdale is the wife of attorney A. Lee Bloomingdale and the mother of seven boys and three girls. In addition to writing a weekly column for McCall's, she has published articles for several leading magazines and journals, is a frequent book reviewer, and a guest lecturer. Her Up a Family Tree is also available in Large Print. Ms. Bloomington lives with her family in Omaha, Nebraska.
