For more than a century the love of cars fast and slow, flashy and frumpy, has been an obsession around the world. 'Car Magazine' in the 1960s and 70s was the British bible for petrol heads and speed freaks: packed with fast, shiny cars speeding along noble country roads, lots of diagrams, bikini-clad dolly birds buffing up the paintwork and classic journalism, such as Stirling Moss' Grand Prixview of 1965. 'The Best of Car: The 60s and 70s' is a cracking piece of automotive nostalgia, harking back to the days when cars were solid, beloved, chrome-bejewelled works of art that often won more care and attention than 'er indoors. It's time to don the sheepskin car coat and head out for a run down memory lane.
