Young and successful, who would give that up? This is the record of one young man who falls in love, gets hitched, and throws it all out the window to take his newlywed bride on the most rewarding journey of their lives around the world. This travel journal is a vicarious backpacker's dream that provides readers with the inspiration to get out of the daily grind and get moving. Journal entries that read like poetry from the soul are accompanied by photography and original artwork. Packaged and designed in full color, this book includes over 170 photos. The author's Japanese fan base, an estimated readership of over a million, responds that this book provides the motivation needed to get out and experience the glory of the world in all its grandeur and beauty.
