Movie star J. C. Cramwood thinks very highly of himself.

That's why he hired a sculptor to create a stunning brass plaque of who else? -- J. C. Cramwood.

The movie star invites the whole town to the unveiling of his plaque. Unfortunately, under the glare of spotlights and in front of a huge crowd, the brass plaque falls out of its wood frame right on top of Cramwood. He promptly hires Doug Savage to sue the sculptor, Sonya Sondheim, for Negligence.

Was the sculptor at fault? Attorney AlisonKrempel must find a way to defend her client in Science Court.
