

The House on Jefferson Street: A Cycle of Memories

The House on Jefferson Street: A Cycle of Memories_ 下载链接1

著者:

出版者:

出版时间:

装帧:

isbn:9780030684852

These memoirs of the distinguished poet, Horace Gregory, are a fitting crown to his poetic achievement. Six volumes of verse, the best now included in his Collected Poems; three sensitive translations of Latin verse; and many critical essays and reviews have established Mr. Gregory as a distinctive, elegiac poet whose "emotional range is perhaps the most comprehensive among modern poets."

[Elizabeth Drew] In this autobiography he taps the source of his keenly ironic vision of the human predicament--a spiritual journey that began in his grandfather's house on Milwaukee's Jefferson Street and moved eastward through the literary worlds of Chicago, New York, London, and onto his family's heritage in Ireland. The odyssey reveals the individual's quest for identity, the exiled artist seeking a homeland. The young Horace, the frail middle child set apart from the complacent bourgeois politics of Wisconsin, is fascinated by the theater; attends the new poetry recitals of Frost, Sandburg, and Lindsay; and meets Harriet Monroe who encourages his poetry. His move to New York during Prohibition conjures up the misery of that era, the uncertainties of freelance writing, the passion behind his first book of poems; then follows marriage to the poet Marya

Zaturenska, a move toward Leftist

作者介绍:

目录:

The House on Jefferson Street: A Cycle of Memories 下载链接1

标签

评论

The House on Jefferson Street: A Cycle of Memories 下载链接1

书评

The House on Jefferson Street: A Cycle of Memories 下载链接1